9. Task Force Discussion
 - One of the goals of the Task Force that has repeatedly been brought forward is to make it possible for older adults to age with dignity, vibrancy, and structural support in the community of their choosing. Is there a governmental entity, or aspects of multiple entities, that Minnesota currently has or of another state we have heard from, that is most suited for this?
 - Task Force discussion and presentations have highlighted the need for upstream policies and planning for healthy aging. What recommendations should we consider to elevate this need?
 - Multisector planning is currently underway in Minnesota for a growing older adult population. What authority would the implementor of this plan need for it to be successful?
 - Do we have an idea of the level of redundancy that exists in our current system/structure for older Minnesotans?
10. Adjourn
